

One World One Voice

Is a world music album intended to raise awareness of environmental issues, produced by Rupert Hine in 1990. A video of the entire album was produced for television together with a "Making of" documentary.

It was created as a "chain tape" started by Kevin Godley. The multitrack tape was sent to various studios around the world where local artists added their contributions to it. Sections of the video were also filmed in the performers' home countries and edited together.

This is a copy of an 90er VHS recording from German TV (mono). Enjoy this fantastic documentary and the music video. Sadly the problematic topic is still relevant to us all.
